

FOOD

3rd Annual Long Beach Burger Week returns starting July 23

by Caitlin Antonios

July 5, 2023

File photo by Matt Miller.

Looking for the perfect summer burger? Long Beach Burger Week may be your chance to find it.

From July 23 through July 30, dozens of restaurants have signed on to offer burgers ranging from $5 to $25, including dog-friendly burgers for furry friends at just $5.

Roxanne's will have two burgers available, one blending a Salvadoran pupusa with a classic burger, sandwiching the beef patty with crispy corn masa and cheese pupusas as buns. The other will include a grilled poblano pepper and a fried egg. Both will be priced at $15.

If you're looking for a little something in addition to a beef patty, The Attic is offering a Cajun lobster burger and The Kroft will have a pulled pork wagyu smash burger, both priced at $20.

Other participating restaurants include:

- Long Beach Tap House
- Komo's Cocina
- Crack Burgers
- Proudly Serving LA (now overseeing the kitchen at Beachwood Brewing's Downtown Long Beach location)
- Polly's Pies
- Saltwater Deck
- Kennedy's
- Hangry Belly
- StrongBeach Lemonade
- The Ordinarie
- Eat Fantastic
- Gallagher's Pub & Grill
- Congregation Ale House
- Remix Kitchen Bar

The full list of burger offerings and prices can be found here.

Long Beach Burger Week is organized by Long Beach Food and Beverage, a local nonprofit organization.
